A ROUND OF TALK.

McCHORD.—Our townsman C. C. McChord, is having boquets thrown at him from some of the State papers, and he is being urged to become a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor. The Lawrenceburg News last week contained the following: "There has been some talk throughout the State with reference to the probable candidate for Governor in the next state campaign, and a number of worthy gentlemen have been named for the honor, among them Hon. C. C. McChord, of Springfield. Mr. McChord is yet a young man, but has been in public life for a goodly term of years, and in every position held by him he has acquitted himself with credit to the state and with honor to himself. As a member of the State Senate he was the author of the law which gives the State Railroad Commission the power to fix rates of freight where the Companies discriminate between sections or individuals, or where the rates are exorbitant and to compel the furnishing of necessary conveniences for passengers at the stations along the lines of railroad, and as a member of the Commission he has been active, in enforcing this law and by his actions has been instrumental in procuring better service from the Companies and in saving many thousands of dollars to shippers and producers. In our judgement no better man can be found for Governor than he, and the News is for him for our next Governor, first, last and all the time."

HIGH PRICES.—It looks now as if the tobacco growers who are fortunate enough this year to raise a good crop of Burley will make a good thing of it provided they are shrewd enough to study and take advantage of the situation as it is developing among the buyers. The estimates of this year's crops all point to a shortage which will of course be a factor in forcing high prices, but the main cause of a higher market is expected as a result of competition among the buying interests. The Continental Co., or the trust, is of course making extensive preparations to buy and handle as much of the crop as possible, and it is understood that the warehousemen of Louisville will make extra efforts this season to secure a portion of the output from the farmers. Another factor in the market this season will be the Burley Tobacco Growers' Association, which was organized last year but owing to some hitch in its financial arrangements did not carry out its plans. The promoters of this organization, we understand, have now secured ample financial support and it is proposed to carry out the original plans of the organization, which will guarantee to the farmers an advanced price for their product Mr. W. C McChord of this place has been interested with the promoters of the State organization and he reports that everything is in shape to carry out the plans of the association, and all that is needed is the co-operation of as many of the tobacco growers as possible. A meeting was held here a little over a year ago for the purpose of getting the sense of the tobacco growers about joining the Growers' Association. A committee was appointed which was to make a report when the association had become financially strong enough to justify the local growers to co-operate with it. The committee announces that it is ready to report and for that purpose a meeting will be held at the Court House in Springfield on next Saturday at 2 p.m. Every tobacco man in Washington county should study the situation as regards the market and act on the plan which promises to realize him the most money for his crop. That is the natural thing to do, and the various buying interests must be made to realize that so far as the farmer is concerned, the highest price gets his product

TOWN ELECTION.—Notwithstanding the fact that at the next November election new officers for the town as a city of the fifth class are to be elected, no interest has as yet been manifested in the make-up of a ticket. We have plenty of kickers who complain of the short-comings of the officers in charge of town affairs, but when the election comes around there is no one who takes an interest. Another thing to which we wish to call attention is the registration law. Under the law enacted by the last Legislature registration has been extended to all incorporated towns of the state. In addition to registration, it requires the issuance of registration certificates to all persons entitled to register and provides that such persons must produce such certificates when they offer to vote. A duplicate can be procured if the person makes affidavit that he has lost same by paying a fee of fifty cents to the county clerk. The first registration day is the first Tuesday in October next, and county clerks will be directed to see that the proper books are provided and instructions given to officers of election in the towns affected by the new law.

Fearful Odds Against Him

Bedridden, alone and destitute Such in brief was the condition of an old soldier by name of J J Havens, Versailles, O. A Power For Good

The pill that are potent in their action and pleasant in effect are D-Witt's Little Early Risers. W. S. Philpot of Albany, Ga., says: "During a bilious attack I took one Small as it was it did me more good than calomel bone mass or any other pill I ever took and at the same time the effect was pleasant. Little Early Risers are certainly an ideal pill." Sold by all druggists.

Life Sentence

At Lancaster Saturday the jury in the case of John Metcalf, charged with the killing of his brother Ben Metcalf, in April 1903, returned a verdict of guilty of murder and fixed his punishment at confinement in the penitentiary for life. Six of the jury were for the death sentence. The case is without precedent in the annals of crime in the history of Garrard county and occasioned widespread interest. The killing resulted from the return of John Metcalf from Missouri to make his home on his father's place, after an absence of 9 years. Ben Metcalf had been living on the farm and resented his brother's return. It was proven that John Metcalf went to Richmond and purchased a pistol, and the next evening shot his brother down in the presence of his father, mother, his wife, his brother's wife and their children.

Killed a Man

A dispatch from Owensboro gives the account below of the killing of a man by Ed Orkies, a former Springfield man who is well remembered and whose father and other relatives still live here. The particulars of the affair are as follows: Thomas Oldham, a well-known business man of Curdsville, this county, was shot and instantly killed last night at 11 o'clock by Ed Orkeis, a saloonkeeper of the same place. The men had had trouble previously, and in the afternoon Oldham had a fight with a farmer. The latter drew a pistol and Oldham accused Orkies of giving him the weapon. Later Oldham went to Orkeis' saloon and attempted to strike him with a lantern. Orkeis picked up a shotgun and fired at him at a distance of four feet tearing a hole through Oldham's body. Orkeis was formerly a horse trainer and was born and reared at Springfield, though he had lived her fifteen years. Or keis was brought here this morning and his examining trial will be held Saturday.

A Valuable Find

The wife of Albert Lewis colored, made a valuable find while sweeping her yard this week. It is a gold dollar of the mintage of 1864. It is somewhat defaced by its long burial and the probable causes that led to it, but the figures, which consist of 13 stars on each side of the coin, a profile of the Goddess of Liberty, a wreath and the date are plainly legible.

The Lewis homestead was the former property of "Uncle" Jim Hill whose usefulness was in the ante bellum days and who bought the place soon after freedom. On the maternal side he was the grandfather of Albert Lewis, the urbane porter at the depot and an attache of the Echo force, so the property is still in the family. "Uncle" Jim had the misfortune to lose his home and property by fire many years ago. It was known at the time that "Uncle" Jim had money burned. This coin shows signs of its baptism of fire and evident it belonged to the coin that was burned in the house—New Haven Echo

OF LOCAL INTEREST

UNHEALTHFUL.—Some of the residents in the southern side of the town are making loud complaints against the foul and unhealthful condition in which the town branch is allowed to remain Several sewers empty into the branch, or rather where the branch should be, and since the dry weather the filth is allowed to accumulate until it is a menace to the health of the neighborhood, besides being very disagreeable. A formal protest signed by a large number of citizens has been circulated, but a remarkable circumstance in connection with the protest is that no one has yet been found on whom to serve it. Men who are supposed to hold the office of Town Trustee emphatically deny when approached with a protest that they hold the office. They claim they have resigned—and perhaps they have. At any rate something ought to be done to abate the nuisance or an epidemic of sickness may be expected.

THURMAN WILL WIN.—The Taylor County Enquirer has the following to say of Judge Thurman. Circuit Court will convene in this city next Monday morning, and this is the first court held in the district since the death of our lamented friend, Judge Charles Patteson. Judge Thurman, recently appointed by Gov. Beckham, will fill out the term until an election is held, which will take place at the regular November election. Judge Thurman is an able lawyer, and the Governor's appointment gives general satisfaction. It is the opinion of politicians in this county that he will win the nomination on Saturday, October 1, with ease.

AFTER OFFICE.—Our brother newspaper man, R. D. Thornbury, Editor of the Lebanon Falcon, has the political bee in his bonnet to the extent that he has announced himself as a candidate for Representative in the next Legislature subject to the action of the Democratic party. Brother Thornbury has his paid announcement in the rival paper the Enterprise which, together with his own paper should give him all the advertising necessary to put his name before the people. Mr. Thornbury, on account of his profession should be in touch with the people and should make a good representative.

DIVORCE SUIT.—A divorce suit was filed in the Circuit Court at this place by Mrs. Jennie Barlow, against Richard Barlow, Jr. The petition alleges among other things that the defendant drove her from home with a shotgun. She asks for divorce and alimony, and sues out a general attachment against all of his property, asks for the custody of her child and an order restraining the defendant from interfering with her or her child.

SOLID.—Judge Ike Thurman has made himself solid enough among the people of Green county to be designated as one of "our people" by the county paper. The Greensburg County Record says: "A number of our people, including Judge I. H.

Thurman, of Springfield, attended the R. Montgomery sale Wednesday."

Cured of Bright's Disease

Geo A Sherman, Lisbon Red Mill, Lawrence co., N Y, writes: "I had kidney disease for many years and had been treated by physicians for 12 years: had taken a well known kidney medicine and other remedies that were recommended but got no relief until I began using Foley's Kidney Cure The first half bottle relieved me and four bottles have cured me of this terrible disease Before I began taking Foley's Kidney Cure I had to make water every fifteen minutes day and night, and passed a brick-dust substance. I believe I would have died if I had not taken Foley's Kidney Cure" Sold by Wood & Campbell

Killed by a Car

The Louisville Times gives the following account of the death by accident of the child of the late Mr. Ed Edelen, formerly of this place:

Leo Edelen, an eight-year old orphan, who lived with his aunt Mrs. A. D, Mackin, 2424 West Broadway, was struck by westbound West Broadway car, No 613, within a short distance of his home at 7.30 o'clock this morning and was almost instantly killed. The car was operated by Motorman George Naller who is a suitor of the little victim's sister Miss Mary Elizabeth Edelen. The little brother-inlaw is also a motorman.

Leo Edelen had been playing "daisy" with a few of his companions on the north side of the street on Broadway between Twenty fifth and Twenty sixth streets. Leo quit playing and said he was going home to breakfast. It is thought that he must not have seen the approaching car, as he darted out in front of it. The car had stopped for a passenger to alight at Twenty fifth street and Motorman Naller had just put on the full current when he saw the boy dash from the sidewalk, running toward the tracks. He reversed the current and applied the brakes as hurriedly as possible, but was unable to avoid the accident.

The lifeguard struck the boy's legs and knocked him in the air His head struck the front and the limp body fell across the lifeguard with part of it dragging. The car ran about fifteen feet before it came to a stop. The child was unconscious when picked up and died before a physician could be called. The skull was fractured on the right side of the forehead and the legs were badly cut and bruised and it is thought that he was internally injured. The body was removed to his home, where Coroner Kelly viewed it. An inquest will be held next week

Leo Edelen was a son of the late Edward Edelen, a farmer of Washington county, Ky., who died three years ago. The family then moved to Louisville The mother. Mrs. Annie C. Edelen died last March. Since then the children have been living at the home of their brother-in-law A. D. Mackin, who is a Motor man employed by the Louisville Railway Company. The little victim is survived by four sisters, Mrs. A. D. Mackin and Misses Flora Ann, Mary Elizabeth and Alice Vincent Edelen, and two brothers, Joseph Edelen and James Edelen who is in the United States army in the Philippines.

THE NEWS-LEADER

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

county Magistrates $2.50
County Officers 5.00

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 8, 1904.

For Circuit Judge

We are authorized to announce
as a candidate for the office of Circuit Judge of the Eleventh Judicial district, composed of Washington, Marion, Taylor and Green counties, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

It will be to the interest of every farmer and tobacco grower in Washington county to attend the meeting called for Saturday afternoon next at the Court House this place. We believe that the tobacco men of the county will learn something materially to their advantage. They at least can lose nothing by attending this meeting and learn of the plans to be laid before them concerning a market and prices for their tobacco crop, a subject which will interest them all. Perhaps many of the tobacco men have already heard of the Burley Tobacco Growers Assciation and the efforts which are being made by its promoters to handle the Burley Tobacco crop of this year. It is impossible in the brief space of this article for us to give the plan but it will be fully explained at the meeting. Mr. W. C. McChord one of our county men has been instrumental in promoting the financial end of the concern and he has just returned from New York with assurances of all the capital needed to carry out the plans for buying. The important point which will be made and the one which every tobacco man can understand and appreciate is that the association purposes to at once put buyers in the field and offer a schedule of prices for the present crop several cents higher than was obtained last year. The NEWS-LEADER is interested in this matter only for the farmers. We want to see the hard working tobacco growers get the benefit of high prices for their products and we believe that if the farmers will co-operate with the Growers Association that high prices for Burley tobacco will come and come to stay. The meeting will be called at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon and every farmer should attend.

All indications point to an end of the great stockyards strike at Chicago. All the unions involved in the strike voted secretly on the proposition of abandoning the strike, and it is stated on good authority that a large majority voted that the strike should be brought to a close without delay. After the vote was taken there was a stampede of strikers to the stockyards where they clamored for work. Between 1,300 and 1,400 were given employment, and in most cases the men who took the places of the strikers are retained.

The Japs have Gen. Kuropatkin on the run and it is evident that the great war which is resulting so disastrously to the Russians is nearing the end.

come, but it was not the show that had their attentions drawn as much as the NEWS LEADER which appears on the same date.

Walter Goatley who has been quite ill for the past few days is able to be out again.

The crops in this vicinity are burning up. A week's rain is badly needed, and if it does not come we won't make a half crop of corn.

Hillsboro

The long drought was broken here last Thursday by a nice rain. People say that water had not been so scarce since '81 Wells and springs failed during this dry spell that never did before. But how famished springs and ponds have been greatly replenished and pastures are looking better.

The farmers are getting along nicely with their tobacco cutting. About one half of the crop has been housed. The past few days have been cool and afforded an excellent time for cutting. A few crops here have already been sold at 10c.

Z. P. Leachman bought a horse from Davis Settles last week. Price unknown.

Mrs. John Armstrong gave an apple dealing one night last week which was well attended and a lot of apples were peeled. Before leaving her daughter Miss Pearl entertained the crowd with some excellent music rendered on the orgar.

The rye, wheat and oats crops here have not yet been threshed and we are very anxious for a machine to visit our community as it will soon be time to sow small grain. If anyone owning a machine may see this we would be glad for him to give us a call.

We met Jim Oder last week and he was all smiles, but no wonder a bouncing big Democratic voter is at his home —Charlie Bazil. Mother and babe are both doing nicely.

Mesdames Emma Leachman and Anna Godby visited friends in Mackville Friday.

W. E. Sutherland and wife and W. C. Cammack and wife attended a fish dinner at Mr. Richard son's near Tatham.

We are requested to say Rev. R. P. Campbell will preach here Sunday morning at 11 o'clock and also Sunday night. All are invited to attend and hear one of his excellent sermons.

I lost flesh and was all run down and a year ago had to abandon work entirely. I had three of the best physicians who did me no good and I was practically given up to die. Foley's Kidney Cure was recommended and the first bottle gave me great relief, and after taking the second bottle I was entirely cured. Sold by Wood & Campbell

The Stomach is the Man

A weak stomach weakens the man, because it cannot transform the food he eats into nourishment. Pleasant Hill

Rain seems to be the leading subject in this vicinity now and has been for several weeks. Rain is needed badly with us, and I am certain there isn't anyone who would object to a fine rain.

Emergency Medicines

It is a great convenience to have at hand reliable remedies for use in cases of accident and for slight injuries and ailments. A good liniment and one that is fast becoming a favorite if not a household necessity is Chamberlain's Pain Balm. By applying it promptly to a cut, bruise or burn, it allays the pain and causes the injury to heal in about one-third the time usually required, and as it is an antiseptic it prevents any danger of blood poisoning. When Pain Balm is kept at hand and a sprain may be treated before, inflammation sets in, which insures a quick recovery. For sale by Haydon's drugstore.

Brush Grove

This community is very dry and we are needing rain very badly. Stock water is very scarce and also drinking water in some places.

A Well Drained Lesson.
Among the village schools in the Tyrol is one which is conducted on the most Arcadian principles, so much so, indeed, that the children are in the habit of addressing the master as "thou" instead of with the more respectful "you."

Once the bishop announced his intention of inspecting the school. The master thereupon called the children together and told them that they must on no account say "du" to the bishop, but must instead always address him as "Eure Ehrliche Gnaden" (your episcopal lordship).

A little later the bishop arrived and was received with becoming reverence. In order to test the knowledge of the children in matters religious he asked them, "Tell me, my children, which is the eighth commandment."

Whereupon up rose a shrill chorus: "Your episcopal lordship shall not Teachers Association.

The Teachers of the Willisburg Magisterial District Teachers Association held their annual meeting at Tatham Springs, Saturday, September 3d. Owing to the unfavorableness of the weather in the forenoon several teachers did not attend and the attendance was not as large as expected. Quite a number of teachers from different parts of the county were present, with a few trustees and a number of patrons and pupils.

The following subjects were well discussed: "School Government," Ivan Keeling; "The Philosophy of an Education," W. L. Keeling; "The Relation of Teacher to his Profession," E T. Franklin; "How can parents be interested in the School," Miss Clara Shepherd; "Teaching as a Profession" Mrs. Kate Shewmaker; "What Education Rightly is," E. E. Brown, "The World we live in" Miss Lettie Bishop. Also the subjects "The Influence of Teacher on Pupils," "How to conduct Recitations," "How to excite interest in study" "The Responsibility of the Teacher," "The use and abuse of the rod" and "The Teacher at Recess" were taken up in open discussion and some good, practical thoughts were presented by Messrs. O. Peters. E. P. Dedman, W. L. Keeling, E. T. Franklin, Misses Anna Claybrooke, Clara Sheperd and others. The meeting was presided over by Mr. E. E. Brown of Willisburg.

The visiting teachers were Miss Anna Claybrooke and Mr. E. T. Franklin of Texas, Mr. O. Peters of Mackville, E. P. Dedman and W. L. Keeling of Chaplin.

ACQUITTED.

Dr. Sam Crume is Dismissed at His Examining Trial for the Killing of Ambros Graves

After two days taken up in hearing the evidence in the case of the Commonwealth against Dr. Sam Crume for the murder of Ambros Graves a negro Judge Litsey dismissed the defendant on last Monday night.

About fifty witnesses were examined and the circumstances taken all together made it a case of justifiable homicide. There were certain points about the actual shooting of the negro by Dr. Crumes which made it appear at first against the accused but when all of the evidence was heard the unanimous opinion was that the killing was justifiable. The evidence went to show that the negro was shot from the rear or at least from the side, but it was proven that he had been advancing on Dr. Crumes in a threatening manner and with his hand on his pistol when the latter procured his shot gun and fired. Graves evidently turned just as the first shot was fired which accounts for the discharge from the gun entering from the side and rear. Dr. Crumes followed his man up and emptied his revolver into his body as he lay on his face on the ground.

It was developed at the trial that Graves bore a very bad reputation in the community in which he lived and that he was quarrelsome and was regarded as a dangerous negro. He and Dr. Crumes had had trouble on previous occasions. Dr. Crumes had fired two shots at Graves on one night just the week before the killing on account of a threatening remark the negro had made. It was proven that Graves and his brother had been hanging about the town with the apparent purpose of waylaying Crumes and that he had told the doctor that he was going to "shoot it out with him."

The verdict rendered by Judge Litsey is regarded as a just one by all who heard the testimony and is universally approved. The defense was conducted by Messrs. John W. Lewis and W. D. Claybrooke while County Attorney T. S. Mayes represented the commonwealth.

Foster Ray's Latest

Mr. Foster Ray, the well-known automobilist of Lebanon but now of Louisville, ran amuck Saturday evening last on Main street. Mr. Ray playfully rolled himself a cigar out of a bundle of greenbacks of large denomination, and proceeded to take an expensive if not a fragrant smoke before the eyes of an admiring multitude. A remark from an irritated and disgusted bystander led to the statement on Mr. Ray's part that said bystander was a liar. Thereupon, said bystander advanced upon Mr. Ray with intentions indubitably hostile, and Mr. Ray adroitly drawing his pistol, stood his ground. Marshall Phillips here stopped the performance by wrenching the pistol from Mr. Ray's hand and staying the onslaught of the attacking party. Then he suggested to Mr. Ray the advisability of a peaceful and prompt journey anywhere out of town, returned him his pistol and started him towards Louisville. But nay, nay, he had not gone. Taking a good running start, he put up an article of speed coming back the main thoroughfare that made horses jump to right and left, and the town marshall hail and jump the automobile. Mr. Ray was again disarmed and led captive to the jail, given a speedy trial, which cost him $14.55 out of his cigar, and sent speeding again upon his journey.—Ne'son Record.

THE MILK TEST.

How You May Discover If Your Digestion Is Perfect.

Milk is known to be one of the few complete foods. It contains the bone, muscle and fat producing elements and sustains the best of the body. The milk of different classes of animals (mammals) varies in composition to suit the different requirements; thus mare's milk is richer in sugar, but lacking in protein, compared with cow's milk.

Another fact of interest connected with milk is found in the difficulty with which some persons digest plain milk. It is safe to say that should any organ, secretion or digestive juice fail to perform its free duty the milk consumed will not be properly digested. The reason for this is simple. Milk contains such a variety of compounds that all portions of the digestive system are called into activity for the digestion of these varied elements. The gastric juice attacks the cheesy matter; the pancreatic and intestinal juices digest the sugars and fats. This takes the milk through the stomach and the small intestines into the large intestine. The lower intestine digests wood fiber also. This alone of all the forms of food nutrients is not found in milk. Because of the facts above stated the ability to drink milk is a test of perfect digestion in nearly all cases.—Philadelphia Ledger.

LIVER TROUBLES

"I had Thedford's Black-Draught a good medicine for liver disease. It cured my son after he had spent $100 with doctors. It tells me soothing before I take."—MRS. CAROLINE MARTIN, Parkersburg, W. Va.

If your liver does not act regularly go to your druggist and secure a package of Thedford's Black-Draught and take a dose tonight. This great family medicine frees the constipated bowels, stirs up the torpid liver and causes a healthy secretion of bile.

Thedford's Black - Draught will cleanse the bowels of impurities and strengthen the kidneys. A torpid liver invites colds, biliousness, chills and fever and all manner of sickness and contagion. Weak kidneys result in Bright's disease which claims as many victims as consumption. A 25-cent package of Thedford's Black-Draught should always be kept in the house.

"I use Thedford's Black-Draught for liver and kidney complaint and found nothing to equal it."—WILLIAM COFFMAN, Marble Hill, Ga.

THE AMIABLE MULE.

A Few Words of Praise For This Much Maligned Animal.

"After a lifetime of close association with the mule," says an old military official, "I have never known him to kick a man, nor have I ever met a man who knew another man of his own knowledge who had been kicked by a mule.

"This is a bold statement, but it is true nevertheless. You can question soldiers of the army everywhere, and I confidently predict that they will bear me out in this. I know I am sprouting a popular belief, but I ask you to stop and think and see if I am not doing our mule friend a deserved justice. Horses kick as well as mules. Mule kicks are as rare as promotions. We've got ever riding at night on the prairies, far away from comrades and camp, weary, looking for the distant twinkling campfires not to be found? Did you ever at such a time see your mule friend lift his tireless head and blow his resonant trumpet of discovery of the sought for haven? He has not seen it, but he has smelt it, and in a moment is trotting a bee line for the distant picket line and forage ration. Were you ever riding across a dreary, dry, dusty country, thirsty, no water in sight and its whereabouts undiscovered? Throw the bridle loose on the mule's neck and give him his way. He will take you to water as unerringly as a carrier pigeon wings its way to its roost."—Nebraska State Journal.

A Fussy Nuisance.

Of a prominent lecturer of London an acquaintance says: "On one occasion he was the guest of a friend of mine, a busy Liverpool merchant, and when the popular lecturer returned from the hall he asked for all sorts of impossible dishes and liquid concoctions peculiar to abstainers, a demand which somewhat upset the routine of the household. When in bed his nervous temperament was tried; he could not bear the ticking of the clocks, so he paraded the house in the small hours of the morning and stopped them all. In consequence of this the servants had to be roused by violent bell ringing. But the guest was not to be distressed, so he arose again and ordered the servants back to their repose and locked them in and then went back to bed."

THE PHONOGRAPH.

Its Invention Was the Result of a Cut on the Finger.

Mr. Edison told the story of this invention to a reporter. At the time, he said, he was singing into a telephone, and in the telephone's mouthpiece he had placed, for safe keeping, a fine steel point. Suddenly this point cut his finger. He found, to his surprise, that it had been moving here and there and roundabout, guided by the vibrations of his voice.

He placed a strip of yellow paper under the steel point, replaced it in the mouthpiece and said the alphabet. The steel, while he spoke, ran over the paper, and for each letter of the alphabet it made a different mark or scratch.

This was what Mr. Edison had hoped for. He now held the steel point still and drew the paper scratches slowly over it. There was given forth, very faintly, the alphabet as he had repeated it.

Thus the principle of the phonograph—the registering and the reproduction of the voice's vibrations—was discovered through the cutting of a finger. It was Edison's finger, though, that was cut. Smith's or Brown's might have been quite hacked off and no phonograph would have resulted.

Loro Musicians.

Of the Tagbanuas, a tribe on the long narrow island called Palanwan, in the Philippines, Mr. Landor writes: "Most musicings of other nationalities play wind instruments by applying them to the mouth. The Tagbanuas plays them with his nose! The lantui, a reed flute, has two holes, and one nose piece at one end of the cane, at the point. The lantui is pressed by the thumb against the left nostril, the right nostril being held tightly closed by the first finger of the hand. The Tagbanuas nose is so flattened at the base and has such expanded nostrils, elongated at the side, that it is especially adapted for this purpose. The Tagbanuas musician can easily in this fashion some sweetly pathetic sounds—by far the most melodious sounds I have ever heard from any body's nose, and he is even bold enough to attempt, with success, too, a trill."

A Belle of Barbarism.

In ancient time it was the custom of the victors in a battle to decorate their doorposts with the skulls of the vanquished. With the advance of civilization of course we no longer continue this bit of barbarity, but the custom has not been abolished by drop altogether, as is seen by the sturdy habit which are often met with among people of Africa the skulls are still used as decorations. Whole villages may be seen adorned with doorposts of the human skull—this gruesome fashion.

Find Some Drawbacks.

"I suppose you enjoy the freedom from care that a fortune brings?"

"Well," answered Mr. Cumrox, "it is that if I hadn't...

THE BARN DOOR SKATE.

A Landlubber's Description of This Peculiar Fish.

The barn door skate beggar's description. I never could tell whether he was looking at me with his eyes or his breathe holes. He is a bottom fish and flat like a flounder. He has a triangular body, the apex of which forms the snout; opposite his snout are his tail and a few extra pieces of his overcoat, which kind nature has tagged on to him in case he gets torn and has to be mended. His tail is embellished with a few spines—this I know for a fact.

He has a couple of eyes a little way back of his snout; and right back of these are a couple of holes that extend completely through him. These holes connect with his lungs, or whatever he uses to breathe with, and have an uncomfortable way of looking at you at the same time as his eyes.

He has a mouth, too, but it is on the under side of him and convenient for business. It is a funny thing, with spines on the lips, and when you pull the lower jaw the upper jaw works with it—a sort of automatic trap, not unlike what you can see in most any cent restaurant. This is a landlubber's description, but it is enough.—Country Life in America.

THE WORD DOILY.

Originally It Was the Name of a Fabric For Summer Wear.

Though the word doily is now restricted in meaning to the small cloth that covers a dessert plate, it had originally a much wider signification. It seems to have been introduced as a cheap and fashionable fabric, specially for summer wear, about the latter part of the seventeenth century, for Dryden speaks of "doiley petticoats," and Steele in the Tatler mentions "a doyley suit."

The name has been long associated with a London firm, trading as linen drapers, in Upper Wellington street, Strand, who occupied the great old corner house next to Nicholls, the banker, from Queen Anne's time to the present day. Though their name happens to be the same as that of the stuff, there is no authority for linking the two together.

Wedgwood rejects derivation and suggests the Dutch dwaele, a towel, or, better still, the Swiss dwaheli, a napkin. The daily itself used to be called a "doily napkin" till shortened by customary usage.—London Standard.

HOMEMADE VINEGAR.

IT IS NO TROUBLE TO BREW, AND YOU HAVE IT PURE.

The Cost Is Next to Nothing, and You Have a Much More Healthful Article Than the Average Product of the Vinegar Factory.

"Why don't you make your own vinegar?" asked my grocer as I gave him an order for a gallon of his best.

"Oh, it's too much bother, and, besides, I don't know how," I answered, putting the chief reason last.

"Well, it's the simplest thing in the world," he replied, "and is so much healthier that one can afford to take what little trouble it is."

We often had plain talks on the subject of food adulteration, and I had profited so much by his information that I gladly listened to what he had to say on the subject of vinegar. He said in substance that much of the vinegar on the market is made by pouring a very poor solution of alcohol over beech shavings or birch twigs that have been soaked in strong vinegar, usually adding hydrochloric and sulphuric acids. Now, these acids in themselves are bad enough; but when they come in contact with copper, brass, tin or zinc a portion of these metals is dissolved and the vinegar becomes still more poisonous. It will eat the tops of fruit jars, if used for pickles, until they become incrusted and feel sticky to the touch, and the pickles get soft and mushy after a time and often lose all sour taste. It also eats the glaze on the inside of stone jugs and hence should be kept in glass jars or bottles. There are few excellent pure vinegars on the market, but so few people know the injurious effects of the cheaper grades that there is not the sale for them that there should be. The old fashioned cider vinegar is the cheapest and safest to use, but since the temperance people have done so much to discourage the use of cider the farmers do not make so much as formerly and consequently do not make the vinegar. In grape sections an excellent vinegar is made in connection with the manufacture of wine, but here also the temperance influence has been felt.

If it is impossible to get vinegar from a farmer or some other person who makes it for sale, there are a number of simple ways of making it at home. I have found it very little trouble, it costs nothing, and you know what you are using. Half gallon fruit jars are better than stone jugs to make it in, as a larger surface is exposed to the light and air, and by shaking often oxygenation, souring, is hastened. A cloth should of course be tied over the top to keep out insects and dust. The jars should be set in the sun and whenever the fluid has worked clear strain off and leave it in a warm place until it is sharp as desired. When mother forms, new vinegar can be made by simply adding sweetened water. Always use soft water, but if it is not available boil the water and set it in the sun a day or two.

The following are some excellent recipes that can be adapted to different localities and seasons:

Vinegar From Apple or Peach Parings.—Fill a jar half full of parings, add one-half teacup of molasses and fill up with water; set in the sun and strain for use in about two weeks.

Corn Vinegar.—Put one teacup shelled corn and one teacup brown sugar or molasses in a jar. Fill up with water and set in the sun. This takes three weeks to make, but is one of the very best vinegars.

Tomato Vinegar.—Mash one quart of ripe tomatoes to a pulp. Strain the juice and put in a jar with one teacupful sugar or molasses. Fill the jar with soft water and set in the sun for two weeks.

Yeast Vinegar.—Dissolve a half teacupful brown sugar in one pint warm water and add a small yeast cake. Fill the jar with water. This will be ready for use in two weeks.

Alcohol Vinegar.—This is the least desirable of any for home use. It is made by using one part alcohol to four parts water. It is fermented with yeast as in the foregoing recipe or by the German process of filtering through beech shavings, but this is a laborious undertaking and not adapted to domestic purposes.

Blackberry or Raspberry Vinegar.—Cover one quart berries with strong vinegar. Let stand two weeks. Then mash the berries and strain the whole over one quart fresh berries. Let stand a week, then mash and strain again. To each quart of vinegar add one pound sugar, bring to the boiling point, skim and bottle while hot, using sound new corks. This furnishes a grateful acid on hot days, diluted with water and poured over cracked ice. It also makes a refreshing beverage for the sick.

Spiced Vinegar.—This gives a pleasant cauliflower pickles, etc.

SKELETONS IN BOOKS.

Stories of Love as Well as of Crime Buried Between the Leaves by Absentminded Readers—The Way One Murder Mystery Was Solved.

The letter began, "My Sweet Anne." Surely a stranger must be pardoned for reading it through, for it was found hidden snugly away between the leaves of a dusty and ancient volume of poems drawn from a great library. The finder took it carefully to the librarian.

"Another one?" said the librarian inquiringly. "Out of the old edition of Moore, eh? Well, I guess we won't send it back. I generally return personal letters if they are of enough interest and nobody calls for them, but if I sent everything back that we find the directors would be about my ears for wasting postage stamps." The afternoon was a quiet one, and the librarian continued:

"We shake every book that is returned, and almost always something falls out. It may be a letter like the one you have just found or a visiting card or a hairpin. Almost invariably the treasures that we unfold bear the earmarks of feminine possession. I am not charging women with carelessness. I am simply stating a fact.

"Generally the things we find are documentary in their nature. Last week I shook out of a book on home life a signed and indorsed check for $20 made payable to the dressmaker whose statement of account was pinned to it. On another occasion a fifty dollar bank note fluttered out. Both were called for within a short time. Occasionally one gives us a glimpse of a love secret or a tragedy. Not so long ago a letter was taken from a book which was of such an unusual nature that I remembered the names concerned long enough to recognize them in the newspaper reports of a court case which divided a family. The letter was addressed to a woman and filled with the frank and open avowal of a man's forbidden love, for the woman was the wife of another. I carefully secreted the missive and a few hours later was confronted by a tall, heavily veiled lady, who asked if a letter had been found in a book which happened to be a morbid problem novel of great popularity at the time, the work of a well known English writer. The question was asked in a voice which tried hard not to shake. I handed the letter over, and the woman hastily took herself off. Scarcely a month later I ran across her name in the newspapers as defendant in a divorce court.

"Yet the writings we find in books are not always so intimate. Sometimes they savor of domesticity and the delights of the kitchen. Indeed I have enough recipes for flowers and sweetmeats to publish the collection as a cookbook. Now and then a book is a veritable mine. I have found in them gold, silver and precious stones. Embroidery silk by the yard and of rainbow hues may be fished out from some novels, and, alas, an occasional cigarette paper.

"The evidences of masculine forgetfulness are rarer. I have forgotten almost all such instances, but of those which I do remember there is one of which the details are as clear to me now as if they had happened yesterday. Indeed it will never leave my mind, for it led to the capture of a gang of criminals.

"A wealthy but solitary old bachelor was found lifeless on the floor of his library one morning. On his body no wound was discovered, and as far as the detectives could ascertain no one had gained access to the house. The case excited great public interest, and I followed the developments with closeness in the newspapers. There had been at first some talk of suicide and more of heart failure, but the autopsy put a new phase upon the case, for it showed that the old man had come to his death through an insidious yet powerful poison. The question then arose. Who administered it? and from reading the detailed report of the doctors I suddenly dropped the paper. I remembered that a month before a stranger had come in one wet, dismal night and asked for a recondite work by a foreign author. It was a standard treatise on poisons and a volume seldom read.

"I hurried to the library and sought the book. Opening it and rapidly running over the pages you may imagine my astonishment and almost horror to find lying between two pages devoted to a detailed account of the very poison that caused the old man's death a smirched and thumb marked piece of paper. On it was writing in a 'small and crippity hand' referring to the chapter and page on which the poison was described. I then looked up the record of the book's withdrawal and found the name which the man had given. I also found that the book had not been taken out since. Having ascertained these facts, I went at once to the police. Taking the information as a clew, the detectives, after a long and arduous search, followed it to its logical end and arrested the only relative the old man had possessed, a medical student, whose existence had not even been known. He confessed his share in the crime and, with his accomplices, paid the penalty. That case opened my eyes to the value of inspecting every book as it is returned to the library."—New York Tribune.
